Some of the fastest-growing and dangerous threats on the Internet are spyware, adware, dialers and browser hijackers. Simple web-page browsing can cause you a lot of PC infections. That is why the very first thing a clever user should do is to protect his computer not only with anti-virus programs but with anti-spyware applications as well. SpyLocked has proved to be one of the most effective protection solutions. It is the most advanced Spyware detection and removal application on the Internet available.

Spyware and Spam are the world's leading threats to your computer's security today. After just five minutes surfing only a few pages on the internet, you may have unknowingly downloaded more than 10 spyware applications that run and exploit your computer. Sending and receiving email makes your computer just as vulnerable to annoying and malicious spam.
